

MRS. BEECHER'S END CAME IN PEACE.

Passed Away on the Tenth Anniversary of Her Husband's Death.

FEW RELATIVES PRESENT.

Only Her Daughter's Family and a Niece Were at the Bedside When She Died.

HER VITALITY WAS REMARKABLE.

In 1895, at Eighty-two, She Journeyed Alone to the Pacific Coast to See Her Son—How Her Busy Life Was Spent.

Stamford, Conn., March 8.—Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher died at 10:42 o'clock this morning at the home of her son-in-law, the Rev. Samuel Scoville, at No. 38 South at her home in West Sutton, Mass., in 1890, when Beecher was a freshman in Amherst College. Miss Bullard's marriage was not happy. The elements of remance. Mr. Beecher, though not yet ordained, had received a call to the pastorate of a church in West Sutton, to whom he wrote to Miss Bullard, to whom he had become attached, suggesting that their marriage take place immediately after his ordination.

Hurried Up the Wedding.
After mailing this letter, Mr. Beecher argued, "Why wait for the ordination?
Why not have her present as my wife to witness it?" With this idea uppermost in his mind he started to Sutton, where he arrived on the evening of the day on which his letter was received. The young preacher succeeded in winning Miss Bullard's consent to a speedy marriage. It was July 23 when he arrived, and there were but four days left to prepare for the ceremony. Miss Beecher's friends delighted to hear her tell of that wedding; how the village dressmakers were nearly distracted when they were directed to make the trousseau at such short notice; how the village store was drawn upon for supplies for the wedding feast, and how she arose early on her wedding day and prepared with her own hands the wedding cake, her prospective husband assisting to the extent of seeding the raisins. Few of their friends lived near enough to be present, and the ceremony was one which, in those days, would be called a quiet home affair.

Immediately after the marriage Mr. and Mrs. Beecher started to Lawrence, Mass., their experiences and trials have been referred in interesting sketches by Mrs.
Beecher, which have appeared in magazines. They were three years in Lawrence, during six years in Indianapolis, and after that Mr. Beecher was pastor of Plymouth Church.

Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher.

The widow of the famous pastor of Plymouth Church, Brooklyn, died yesterday at the home of her daughter in Stamford, Conn. Her end came on the tenth anniversary of her husband's death, and almost at the same hour.

street, this city, where she had hovered between life and death for many weeks.
It was just ten years ago to-day and almost exactly the same hour that her husband passed away.

Mrs. Beecher's death had been expected at any time during the last two months.
Her vitality surprised her physicians, who for several weeks had not given the slightest hope that she would recover.
Mrs. Beecher, who was eighty-four years old, came to Stamford late last November to spend Thanksgiving with her daughter.
On November 27 she fell in her bedroom, cutting a deep gash in the back of her head. She was recovering from this when, on December 20, during one of several dizzy spells that followed the first accident, she fell again in her room during the night and fractured one of her hips. It was this that caused her death.

She gradually sank, her strength failed steadily, and several times during the last few weeks it was supposed that she would not live half a day longer. Mrs. Beecher was unconscious for twenty-four hours before her death, and her end came peacefully. Her only relatives present were her daughter's family and a niece, Miss Bullard.

No arrangements have been made for the funeral, and it is probable that none will be made until to-morrow. It will be necessary to wait until the kinfolk arrive in Stamford before the final decision is made.

West Went to Her Son.
In 1895 Mrs. Beecher undertook a long journey to the West alone, spending her birthday with her youngest son, Herbert Foot Beecher, at Port Townsend, on Puget Sound, Washington. On her return she said she experienced no trouble or fatigue from her extended travels. She always shared the affections of Plymouth Church with her husband, his famous pastor, and since his death held a high place of honor among the members of that congregation.

Until recently she was almost as active and bright as she was twenty years ago.
She was, until she gave up housekeeping, mistress of a three-story and basement house at Orange and Hicks streets, Brooklyn. The rooms were filled with reminiscences of the prominent life of her husband, as were her shelves in other apartments. One of these was the story of her early girlhood, her first home, advice to young women, and many others of a similar nature.

All of the little adornments of her toilet were made with her own hands, the graceful lace caps, trimmed with ribbons and soft, heavy lace arranged at her neck and wrists. The only jewelry she wore consisted of several opals in large, rich settings, which were presented from Mr.
Beecher, whose fondness for rare gems was well known.

NO PRESS CENSOR BILL.

Senator Lamy and Assemblyman Braun Have No Intention of Presenting Such a Measure.

Albany, N. Y., March 8.—A local newspaper contained a telegram this evening from Buffalo to the effect that Assemblyman Braun and Senator Lamy had in their possession a bill providing for the appointment of official press censors. The Buffalo story said that Governor Black approved the bill. The censors, according to the report, were to be appointed by the Governor, to hold office at his pleasure, and to receive their compensation from a fund contributed in equal parts by the State and the newspapers.

Messrs. Lamy and Braun, when they reached here this evening, said they had heard nothing of the measure. Mr. Lamy remarked that he must have considerably less sense than he has at present before he will stand sponsor for the bill.

Although this story would seem under ordinary circumstances, the recent introduction of the Ellsworth bill has made such an impression upon the sensitive legislators that they gravely discussed the alleged Lamy-Braun scheme of establishing the custom so popular with General Wey-

Senator Malby, chairman of the Senate Committee on Codes, when on Wednesday will hear those opposed to the Ellsworth bill said to-night that but one hearing would be given. He expected, he said, to report the bill favorably on Thursday, and hoped to have it passed before the Senate expired the week of Mr. Malby's conviction that the bill will have a wholesome effect, and thinks its operation will be hailed with joy by the "oppressed public."

While Senator Ellsworth is making every effort to have the bill made an organization measure, there are some of his Republican colleagues who refuse to be caught with such chaff. They question the right of any organization to put the seal of party regularity upon such a proposition.

Sensor Brackett, a Republican, of Saratoga county, grew indignant as he discussed the matter. "I should be ashamed of myself," said Senator Brackett, "if I could ever have thought of favoring such an atrocious bill."

Senator Guy, the only member of the Committee on Codes who voted against the measure, said that he had no objection to the bill, but that he should be ashamed of myself if I could ever have thought of favoring such an atrocious bill.

CARTOON BILL AN INJURY TO LABOR.

Passes Resolutions
Against It.

BLOW AT PRESS LIBERTY.

Fight to Be Made Against the Ellsworth Measure by Union Labor at Albany.

MEANS LOSS OF WORK TO MANY.

Four Hundred Photo-Engravers in New York Alone Would Feel the Effect of the Law Almost Immediately.

Should Senator Timothy E. Ellsworth's anti-Cartoon Bill become a law, the photo-engraver would be seriously affected.
Their means of earning a livelihood would be seriously curtailed and many of them would have to begin all over again and learn a new trade.

This the photo-engravers do not intend to accept without a vigorous fight. Ever since the bill was introduced its provisions have been discussed at the meetings of Photo-Engravers' Union No. 1, and not one word has been said in its favor.

Aside from personal reasons the members of the union condemned the bill on many grounds. To begin with they argued that such legislation was entirely unconstitutional, and that it was a direct assault on the rights of every person who may be libeled or even think he is; and, two, the bill proposes to substitute the State for the individual in the righting of individual wrongs.
This it was urged would be a dangerous precedent.

Then the bill was condemned as an attempt to muzzle the press, to do away with one of the most powerful means of criticism that ever kept a public official in the straight and narrow path, and a positive deprivation to the reading public, inasmuch as the illustrations that are used now days are fully as interesting as the reading matter that accompanies them.

All these coupled with the fact that, in the opinion of the photo-engravers, the Ellsworth bill was a crude piece of legislation framed by a man totally ignorant of the subject, and not even adequately covering the ground he aimed at, and that it would drive a number of papers and incidentally many men to other States, led the Union to adopt the following resolution:

Whereas, A bill has been introduced in the New York State Senate by Senator Timothy E. Ellsworth, of Lockport, N. Y., with the object of prohibiting the publication in any newspaper, magazine, pamphlet, book or publication whatever, the portrait of any individual without his or her written consent; and

Whereas, Should this bill become a law it will strike a serious blow at the liberty of the citizen and the press, besides crippling some of the most honorable industries in the State, therefore, be it

Resolved, That Photo-Engravers' Union No.
1, of New York State, protests against the passage of said bill as dangerous to the rights, liberties and privileges of the citizens of the State, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the press.

These resolutions, with those passed Sunday by Typographical Union No. 6 and the Central Labor Union, will be sent to the public hearing before the Senate Codes Committee to-morrow, and they will be backed up by the oral arguments of delegates from the Central Labor Union and the Photo-Engravers' Union. These delegates will be accompanied by an able lawyer and the strongest kind of a fight will be made against the bill. They represent more than 100,000 voters of this State.

James H. Dulin, chairman of the Legislative Committee of the Workingmen's Assembly of this State, will be at Albany to fight the bill, and will be assisted by Delegate Harris, of the Central Labor Union, and Secretary William F. Long, of the Photo-Engravers' International Protective and Beneficial Association.

The latter has already done some effective work against the bill, and has secured alone, aside from that, however, we are against the bill, as we believe it would prove a most dangerous precedent. Our organization got the Foster bill of Assemblyman Wilson defeated, and we are going to try to perform a like service for Senator Ellsworth's anti-cartoon bill.

performance on the ice, carnival procession, maypole, and serpentine dances, drills, trick bicycle riding and skating. The rink will be beautifully decorated and a special orchestra has been engaged in addition to
